The Insurance Press, a wide awake New York publication, has this to say of Mr. W. A. Crenshaw's candidacy for the office of collector of Richmond: "Councilman W. A. Crenshaw, of Richmond, Va., who, for many years, has held, an important position with the Virginia State Insurance Company, has declined to stand for re-election to the Council, but has entered the race for collector of city taxes. Mr. Crenshaw has offered many valuable measures in the Council, among them several looking to insurance reforms. Most of them failed of passage, but resulted in good, inasmuch as the way for their ultimate success has been paved. While Mr. Crenshaw is opposing a strong man, who is already in office, his friends are saying that his fine record in the Council will make him a formidable candidate.

John Robinson's Circus, Pioneer of Them All, Has Good Crowd of Them All, Has Good Crowd John Robinson's circus, the pioneer of them all, spread its tents at the head of Broad Street yesterday and gave two exhibitions, each of which was witnessed by several thousand people. There is a Saying that "when you see one circus, you have seen them all," and in a sense this is quite true, but nevertheless there is a fascination about the sawdust ring that each year draws thousands under the white tents to see the same old clowns and the same old show over again.

under the white tents to see the said show over and over again.

There are several things new in the John Robinson's circus of this season, among them the "loop-the-loop" act. There are tyree rings, and as is the case with all modern tent shows, half-a dozen different acts are presented at the varied time. Once during the exhibition of yesterday eleven separate acts were being presented simultaneously.

The feature act of the performance is that billed as "Miss Edna," the equestrienne. Her riding was excellent, and she was clean and finished in her work. All of the horses used in the several riding acts were fine looking animals, and were in the best of condition.

The performance spened with the King Solomon spectacle, in which was introduced a ballet. The usual circus acts followed, and the exhibition closed with the Hippodrone races.
